WHERE HAVE THEY GONE

A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY OF RICHMOND IN TROUBLE.

Office Fixtures Have Been Levied Upon for the Rent.

The law firm of Doswell & Chalmers, of his city, has instituted suit in the Law nd Equity Court of Richmond against he Provident Fire Insurance Company, lso of this city, for the recovery of 1,100.

31,100.

The Provident Insurance Company formerly had its offices in the Chamber of Commerce, until some time ago, when they apparently quietly vacated, leaving with two months rent unpaid.

Mr. R. A. Dunlop, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has attached the company's office fixtures.

In 1882, A. C. Haynor, of Chicago, Ill., and D. L. Fry, then of this city, went around to a number of gentlemen and agitated the formation of the company.

CHARTERED HERE.

CHARTERED HERE.

They appeared to be in good faith and the enterprise was taken up by several gentlemen and subsequently the company was granted a charter by the Circuit Court of this city, on November 21, 1893, under the name of the Frovident Fire Insurance Company.

According to the stipulations of the charter the company was allowed to carry on a general fire insurance and incidentally to invest money taken in by the company on real estate and other securities.

On May 1, 1894, the Lynn brothers, of Selma, N. C., suffered a loss by fire. They held policy No. 5093 in the Provident company for $1,100.

As a consequence of the fire they were forced to make an assignment, and accordingly did so to Mr. N. E. Edgerton as trustee.

Mr. Edgerton placed the policy in the hands of his attorneys. Messrs. Massey & Narron, for collection, so as to indemnify as much as possible the Lynn demnify as much as possible the Lynn Bros.

It seems that the policy had been placed by Mr. J. E. Hatcher, who is an adjuster of losses by fire, and has his office in the Chamber of Commerce. Messrs. Massey & Narron wrote to Mr. Hatcher asking for forms of proof of loss to be filled out in compliance with the requirements of the policy. They received no answer, and wrote again, when they received an answer, saying that Mr. Hatcher was not connected with the company, but had simply placed the risk on a commission.

WANTED PROOF. WANTED PROOF.

WANTED PROOF.

Here the matter hung for some time, the company claiming that they had hever received the proofs of loss.

Finally Massey & Narron wrote to Doswell & Chalmers, placing the case in their hands, and the suit was instituted. Then the company wanted to make a compromise of fifty cents on the dollar, but this was not agreed to by Doswell & Chalmers.

I interviewed Secretary Dunlop yesterday, and he said that he only knew the Provident company as tenants. He further stated that they had left the Chamber of Commerce one by one, and so quietly that he did not know they were gone. He levied on the office furniture because the company owed for two months rent. The last person in charge of the company's office was the type-writer.

of the company's office was the type-writer.

Fry and Haynor, it is said left the city some time ago and no one seems to know just where they are at present.

It is not known what number of policies were issued by the company. Mr. Bordon, who was for a short time sceretary of the company, said, "We thought it was all right when we went in it." He pronounced it a wild scheme.

There has been a large number of inquiries received here about the company, and they continue to come in, which would indicate that some of the agents or agencies are still working for policies putside of Richmond.

RAN INTO THE POCAHONTAS. Schooner George C. A. Travers Struck the Steamer Heavily.

On her way up from Norfolk yesterday the steamer Pocahontas, of the Virginia Navigation Company, met with an accident which created considerable commotion among her passengers, though no one was hurt. At the time of the accident the Pocahontas was near what is known as Gooch Hill Beach, and was sailing at the usual rate. Schooner George C. A. Travers, a small craft loaded with lumber, was going in the opposite direction. The captain of the Pocahontas saw that the schooner was coming dilumber, was going in the opposite direction. The captain of the Pocahontas saw that the schooner was coming directly towards him, so he reversed his wheel and commenced to back. The captain of the schooner, however, seemed to lose control of his craft, which crashed into the port side of the Pocahontas, smashing up a lot of the light wood work, shattering into fragments some of the handsome plate-glass mirrors and otherwise damaging the pretty craft. The shock to the passengers frightened them a little, but soon everything had quieted down, and the steamer resumed her trip, reaching Richmond only a short time after schedule time. The schooner was not seriously damaged.

When seen last night Mr. Irvin Weisiger, superintedent of the Virginia Navi-

THE OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected for the first year: Mr. Polk Miller, president; Mr. Daniel L. Fry. vice-president and treasurer: Mr. Charles H. Jordon, sccretary, and Mr. A. C. Haynor, general manager. Among the directors was Mr. E. H. Clowes.

It was stated yesterday that Fry produced securities in his dealings with the State authorities and the Richmond gentlemen who went into the scheme, of a sufficient amount to justify the granting of the charter.

It only took about three months for Messrs. Miller, Jordon and Clowes to discover that the company was not all they had expected it to be, so they quietly withdrew.

Where is Char es A. Nelson?

Mayor Taylor has received a letter from a Mrs. F. Rogers, of 327 Hanover street, Boston, Mass., who desires to secure some information as to the whereabouts of Charles A. Nelson. The letter reads as follows:

"I would like to get information about a gentleman named Charles A. Nelson, if possible. He left Boston two years ago this month in company with a man named Harry Johnson. They ran a manchine called "flying horses," afterwards painting houses, steeples, etc. The last that was heard of Charles Nelson was that he was lying in a hospital in Richmond dying from blood poison caused by the paint; whether it was a fall from the steeple or not I cannot tell. He is of Swedish descent; of medium height, and a blond.

Now, what is wanted to know is if he as recovered from his illness; any information regarding him would be thank-lily received, as he is left a handsome rrune by his parents; or, at the time his other died, it being recently."

For several weeks past a large chorus and an excellent cast has been rehearsing faithfully at Belvidere Hall, under the able direction of Professor J. Emory Shaw, and have now reached a point of musical and dramatic profesency that assures a brilliant rendition of this catchy and popular opera. The scenery, stage accessories, costumes and augmented orchestra will all be in keeping with the generous policy mapped out for the production. All previous amateur efforts are to be eclipsed and the event is being festered by the board of governors and members of the Mozart Association with the object in view of making it a thorough artistic and financial success.

NEXT SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Miller & Rhoads.

Little Doubt That Thomas B, Reed Will Again Be the Czar.

GOSSIP AS TO COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Who Will Be Fortunate if Sanfority Selecton 1. Made...There May Be Excep. tions_Placing the Democrats, (risp the Leader.

There is little doubt that Mr. Reed will be the Speaker of the next House of Representatives. If he follows the course he did in the Fifty-first Congress, he will appoint as chairmen of the committees those men who have served as heads of the Republican minority of the committees in the Democratic Congresses. It is possible that he will not follow the rule strictly but in most cases he will do so. Many of the men will be those he first placed on the committees in the Fifty-first Congress, but there will be very few who will be the same chairmen he selected at that time. A great many of the men selected by Mr. Reed in the Fifty-first Congress as chairmen of committees are no longer in Congress. There are a few exceptions, and they will probably secure their old places.

THE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTES.

doubted if he will be made chairman. It was known at the close of the last session that on account of something that took place, in the way of publishing statements of the appropriations the present senior member of the committee, David B. Henderson, of lowa, and Mr. Cannon were both candidates for chairman of the committee, in case a Republican Congress should be elected. Mr. Henderson is at the head of the minority, and Mr. Cannon is at the foot of the list, and there would have to be some strong reasons for jumping the latter up to the top.

THE JUDICIARY.

THE JUDICIARY.

In all probability George W. Ray, of New York, will be chairman of the Judiciary Committee, although there will be a strong and perhaps successful effort to make William A. Stone, of Pennsylvania, chairman of this committee. Neither of these gentlemen were selected by Mr. Reed. In fact, none of the Republicans who served on the Judiciary Committee under Mr. Reed are now members of that committee in the present Congress, and only one has been returned—J S. Sherman, of New York, and he would like the other men who falled to be returned to the Fifty-second Congress, begin at the foot of the list. Ezra B. Taylor, of ohlo, was chairman of this committee in the Fifty-first Congress.

In the natural order of things, Charles, ohlo, was chairman of this committee in the Fifty-first Congress.

In the natural order of things, Charles Daniels, of New York, would be the hairman of the Committee on Elections. There will be no Republican members of the House who were members of this committee in the Congress presided over by Mr. Reed except John F. Lacy, of Iswa, and he is in line for the chairman stip of another committee, which he may prefer, and he is not a member of the elections Committee now. Jonathan H. Rowell, of Illinois, was chairman of this committee in the last Republican Congress.

BANKING AND CURRENCY.

Joseph H. Walker, of Massachusetts, will no doubt be chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency. He is the only Republican on the committee who was a member of it during the Fifty-first Congress, Then, George W. E. the only Republican on the committee who was a member of it during the Fifty-first Congress. Then, George W. E. Dorsey, of Nebraska, was its chairman. Charles W. Stone, of Pennsylvania, is in line for the chairmanship of the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, although he is a new member since the Fifty-first Congress. None of Mr. Reed's appointees are now members of that committee. Charles P. Wickham was chairman in the Reed Congress. None of the men whom Mr. Reed selected as members of the Committee on Commerce, now called Interstate and Foreign Commerce, is a member of the new House. First on the list of the Republicans of the next House is William P. Hepburn, of Iowa. He may secure the prize, although it appears from the manner in which the old committees are constituted, and the retirement of many Republicans, that Iowa would get more than her share of chairmanships, and this may dispossess Hepburn, or it may affect some other Iowa man.

Binger Hermann, of Oregon, will, beyond doubt be chairman of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. He was appointed a member of that committee by Mr. Reed, and it is known that a warm friendship exists between the two men. General Henderson, of Illinois, was chairman before, but he will not be a member of the next House. Grosvenor, of Ohio, and Stephenson, of Michigan, were appointed members at the same time, but Mr. Hermann is their senior on the list.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS. Robert R. Hitt, of Illinois, was chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the Fifty-first Congress, and there is no doubt that he will again fill that position. Charles A. Boutelle, of Maine, is another man who Mr. Reed appointed to a chairmanship, and he will, again be at the head of the Committee on Naval Affairs. Another Maine man.

Seth L. Milliken, made chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds by Mr. Reed, will no doubt again secure that place.

William W. Bowers, of California, will no doubt be chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs. None of Mr. Reed's former appointees is now a member of this committee or of Congress. Hyron M. Cutcheon, of Michigan, was the former chairman. Eugene F. Loud, another California man, is at the top of the list for chairman of the Committee on Post-offices and Post-roads, although Henry H. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, may be selected. Mr. Bingham is now a member of the Committee on Appropriations, and may prefer to remain there, as he chose that in preference to being simply head of the minority of the Post-office Committee.

simply head of the matority of the description office Committee.

John F. Lacey, of Iowa, is in direct line for chairman of the Committee on Public Lands. Lewis E. Payson, of Illinois, was chairman before. John A. Pickler, of South Dakota, will be in line for chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, and owing to the fact that so many Indians are residents of his State, will be selected for that place. The late Bishop W. Perkins, of Kansas, was chairman of this committee in the Fifty-first Congress.

first Congress.

George D. Perkins is another Iowa man who is fortunately placed. He is in line for chairman of the Committee of Territories. Isaac S. Struble, whom Mr. Perkins succeeded, was chairman before.

INVALID PENSIONS.

men he selected at that time. A great many of the men selected by Mr. Reed in the Fifty-first Congress as chairmen of committees are no longer in Congress. There are a few exceptions, and they will probably secure their old places.

THE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

If Julius C. Burrows should not secure the senatorship which he is seeking in Michigan he will be made chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, otherwise it would naturally fall to Sereno E. Payne, of New York. Major McKinley, it scarce needs to be mentioned, held this place before. It is also quite likely that Mr. Dingley, of Maine will be a member of that committee, unless he should prefer to remain on Appropriations.

Although Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, is now a member of the Committee on Appropriations, and was chairman of this committee in the former Congress, it is doubted if he will be made chairman. It was known at the close of the last session that on account of semething that took place, in the way of publishing statements of the appropriations the present senior member of the committees, David B. Henderson, of Iowa, and Mr. Cannon were both candidates for chairman of the committees, in case a Republican Committees are not of the committees on the committee, which would be likely to go to Lewis D. Apsley, of Massachusetts, vice-chairman of the Republican Committee, Plekker, of South Campaign Committee, Plekker, of South Campaign Committee, but as both could probably be chairmen of committees which they would much more prefer, they will no doubt waive all right they may have to the chairman fully the place of Kansas, was chairman in the Fifty-first Congress.

The remaining committees are not of sometime to the chairman in the Fifty-first Congress.

The remaining committees are not of the remaining committees are not of them are considered good, and will no doubt be sought after. There is Accounts, which would be likely to go to Mr. Post, of Illinois, Agriculture, which would go to Hainer, of Nebraska, if Apsley should waive his seniori

There are, besides these, a number of committees which are such in name only, and which give the member a clerk at a little larger salary than he would now receive as clerk to an individual member, it is not at all probable that the list as given will be followed, but these are the men whose seniority would entitle them to the places, were other considerations not to intervene. According to this list, no place is made for Mr. Babcock, chairman of the Campaign Committee, and there is no doubt but that he will be either given a chairmanship or a place on some important committee which he desires.

There is some speculation as to how the Speaker would organize the Committee on Rules. No doubt if Mr. Burrows remains a member of the House he will be a member of the Committee on Rules, as well as chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means. Mr. Reed selected before, in addition to the chairman of the Committee on Ways and the senior members of the minority of these committee on Rules, the chairman of the Committee on Rules, and the senior members of the other two members of the committee. Before the close of Congress, however, this last selection of Mr. Blount, of Georgial, and Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee. When Carlisle went to the Senate and Randall died Mills would not serve on the committee, and Reed took the next member, who was McMillin. There is no doubt but that Mr. Crisp will be made head of the minority of the Ways and Means Committee on Rules, but whether the other Democratic members on Rules will be Catchings or the senior member of the Committee on Rules, but whether the other Democratic members on Rules will be Catchings or the senior member of the Committee on Rules, but whether the other Democratic members on Rules will be Catchings or the senior member of the Committee on Rules, but whether the other Democratic members on Rules will be Catchings or the senior member of the Committee on
